The image shows the interior of a timber warehouse. The ceiling and walls are made of light-colored spruce wood, featuring a prominent grain and knots. The ceiling is composed of horizontal planks, while the walls are made of vertical planks. A large, square wooden pillar supports the ceiling. Several woven, basket-like pendant lights hang from the ceiling, each suspended by a thin black cord. The background shows a lush green landscape with banana plants and other tropical vegetation under a cloudy sky. A dark green tarp is visible on the right side of the frame.
